Plant and Flower Festivals make fall gardening easy

The ideal period for fall planting is roughly six weeks before the first hard frost. Generally, the window of opportunity for most folks is during September and October. That's why the South Carolina Department of Agriculture hosts the fall plant and flower festivals. It's prime time for fall planting!

The Greenville State Farmers Market's 8th annual AutumnFest, the Upstate's premier fall festival, will be held on September 26-28. One weekend later on October 3-5, the Pee Dee State Farmers Market in Florence will host its 16th Fall Plant and Flower Festival.

Hugh Weathers, Commissioner of Agriculture, says, "Fall is the ideal time to plant all kinds of things from cool-season veggies and perennials to evergreen and deciduous trees and shrubs.

Football is Firing Up Fans and the Tailgating Season

One of the earliest stories about tailgating stems from the 1869 Rutgers-Princeton game, when picnics were served from a carriage at the "tail end" of a horse. As pickups and other vehicles replaced horses around the football field, the term "tailgating" stuck.

It's now a fall phenomenon, with some 70 million Americans expected to host or attend at least one of these ultimate parking lot parties this fall. Tailgate chefs set a bountiful table; some 42 percent spend more than $500 a year on tailgating foods. Nearly all - 95 percent - actually cook at the game, often starting at least three to four hours before kick-off.

Attention Farmers! Buy-in Waiver Fee for Disaster Assistance Programs Due September 16

USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) will allow producers who would otherwise be ineligible for the new disaster assistance programs to become eligible by paying a fee as required by the Food, Conservation and Energy Act of 2008 (the 2008 Act).

The 2008 Act requires Producers who wish to participate in the new disaster programs to have crop insurance or non-insured crop disaster assistance (NAP) coverage for the land for which assistance is being requested, and for all farms in all counties in which they have an interest. Since the 2008 Act was enacted after the application periods had closed for those programs, producers who did not

Conservation Programs Protect Soil, Water, and Wildlife

The deadline to apply for assistance from the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) for two of its Farm Bill programs is September 30, 2008. NRCS provides financial and technical assistance to help landowners address natural resource concerns, promote environmental quality, and protect wildlife habitat on their property. The cost-share funds are available through the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) and the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP).

EQIP helps farmers improve production while protecting environmental quality by addressing such concerns as soil erosion and productivity, grazing management, water quality, animal waste, and forestry concerns. EQIP also assists eligible small-scale farmers who have historically not participated in previous programs.

Back to School - a great time to eat healthy

Way back when I was in high school, it was blackboards, notebook paper, and drives in my brother's Willys jeep. Now, it's smart boards, notebook computers, and flash drives. One thing that hasn't changed, though, is tests. Here's a test question for you on your kids' health.

What increases learning capacity, increases self-esteem, increases test scores, and reduces stress? The answer a pair of tennis shoes and a bowl of cereal. (Certified SC Grown grits would be good). Kids that regularly move their bodies, work up a sweat, and eat a healthy breakfast are kids that gain a leg-up in school.

We all watched Michael Phelps win eight gold medals in the Beijing Summer Olympics. I was so motivated that I swam twenty laps one night instead of my usual ten. Wished I hadn't the next morning. Nevertheless, most U.S. Olympic winners show up on a box of Wheaties, but I hear Michael will be endorsing Tony the Tiger's Frosted Flakes. He's drawn some criticism from health experts for it. Bill Cosby used to say that his wife disapproved of him giving their children a slice of cake for breakfast. He said tongue in cheek, "Cake has eggs and milk. Sounds like breakfast to me?"

The truth is that kids need to eat a good, wholesome breakfast (preferably Certified SC Grown) and exercise. Swim. Run. Walk. Play a sport.

Back to School

The exercise for their fingers from text mailing or video games doesn't count. The idea is to encourage children to eat smart and move more. One of our goals has been to encourage our South Carolina children to eat healthier and get a move on.

To help give kids better access to healthy and nutritious foods during the day, we're working with the S.C. Department of Education and the School Nutrition Association to ensure kids are eating healthy. We recently began a partnership to encourage kids not only to eat better, but to put the tools in the hands of educators to make that happen. Our job has been to help locate sources of locally grown produce. I thank our partners W.P. Rawl and Sons and Senn Brothers for their help in this effort.

Today, kids in more than twenty schools across the state not only have access to fresh fruits and vegetables at no cost for healthy mid-day snacks, they are also learning valuable lessons about eating healthy. The packages of carrots, broccoli, and fruit cups to eat come straight from South Carolina farms. This pilot phase could lead to a stepped up effort in the farm-to-school initiative in the state.

By the way, September is Better Breakfast Month, so start your family's day in a Certified SC Grown way. As guardians of our most precious resources, make sure that you're providing a good, wholesome breakfast for your children before they leave for school and stuff their backpacks with a few healthy snacks for munching throughout the day. Nothing's fresher. Nothing's finer. And Nothing's healthier!

Speaking of kids, we recently wrapped up our fifth annual Commissioner's School for Agriculture at Clemson University. We had the largest group of students that we've ever had. Forty-three high school students arrived at Clemson for the week-long academic program that ran from July 19-25. The students, who came from across the state and as far away as Tennessee and Virginia, spent the week exploring career paths in agriculture and natural resources.

Our staff and the folks at Clemson put on a fantastic program and it's always rewarding to see these young folks get excited about agriculture. I join them each year for the closing ceremonies and see some tired faces, and that's mostly on staff! We have some budding ag education majors or even foresters. Many of the students had a background in agriculture and some did not.

Katie Black, Coordinator of Student Relations and Recruitment for the College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Life Sciences at Clemson, said the students were challenged academically, but they were encouraged to have a lot of fun while learning. Their days were packed full from sun up to sun down with workshops related to academic integrity, teamwork, personal growth and leadership.

The students chose academic tracks related to their interests, and they were also exposed to a variety of topics including the 'green' variety - organic food production, greenhouse management, and athletic turf-grass growing. Others included animal and veterinary sciences, packaging science, aquaculture, forestry and wildlife and natural resource management. They also took several field trips including visits to university research farms, the Clemson Experimental Forest, and rafting on the Chattooga River.

One highlight was smoothie night. They got a chance to have a little fun while making Certified SC smoothies using South Carolina fruits. They also had to market their concoction and were judged on their performance. It gave them an idea of what our Marketing folks do here to get the word out about eating local.

Whether it's a pilot project for vegetables in schools or making fruit smoothies, our goal is to help children not only eat better through access to fresh fruits and veggies, but to introduce them to the importance of agriculture.

have such coverage could not comply with this requirement in order to be eligible for the new disaster programs. However, the 2008 Act authorizes a waiver that allows producers to pay a fee, called a "buy-in" fee, to be eligible for this new disaster assistance.

Every producer whose crops, including grazing lands, are not fully covered by crop insurance or NAP may take advantage of this one-time opportunity. The buy-in fee is due no later than Sept. 16, 2008, 90 days after the date of enactment, as required by the 2008 Act. Those who miss this opportunity will not be eligible for disaster assistance.

Producers are also reminded that the payment of the applicable buy-in fee does not afford the producer crop insurance or NAP coverage. It only affords eligibility for the 2008 disaster programs.

For more information about the Buy-in Waiver for Supplemental Agricultural Disaster Assistance Programs, call your local USDA Farm Service Agency or visit <http://www.fsa.usda.gov>.

Plant and Flower Festivals

Yet, strangely, when it comes to planting, many homeowners think only of spring."

Jackie Moore, Festival Coordinator, says, "Do your garden a favor! Try fall planting. Fall is the best time to plant perennials. And during the fall, it's easy to see where there are empty spots, where you may want to add height, texture or a different color. It's also best for plants. The roots have all winter to grow without having to use energy to generate growth above the soil." She adds, "It's also easier on the gardener to plant in the fall. The temperature is cooler and the soil is less dense."

The three-day events will feature locally grown and seasonal produce as well as plants and flowers. Vendors will be on hand with fall garden favorites such as hardy pansies, snap dragons, mums and ornamental cabbage. In addition, pumpkins, ornamental corn, and other decorative items will be available for holiday displays.

"We encourage everyone to come out and take advantage of a variety of farm fresh products and seasonal produce," said Commissioner Weathers. "You can find Certified SC Grown products almost year round at the State Farmers Markets. Nothing's fresher. Nothing's finer."

AutumnFest will be held on Friday and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Greenville State Farmers Market, 1354 Rutherford Road in Greenville. For more information about AutumnFest, call Ardonia Summerall, Greenville State Farmers Market, 864-244-4023.

Tailgating Season

Beef was cited as the favorite food for stadium dining by 62 percent of avid tailgaters in a recent survey by Grill Freedom, Inc. and www.tailgating.com. Steak reigns as king, chosen by 34.4 percent of tailgaters, while burgers ranked second, preferred by 27.7 percent of parking lot grill masters, according to the survey.

"You can't beat the aroma of beef sizzling on the grill, combined with great fall weather and exuberant football fans," said James Sease, beef producer from Ehrhardt and Chairman of the SC Beef Board. "It's just a feast for all the senses all the way around."

Are you tailgating this year? Perfect your game plan with these tips from the SC Beef Board.

- Serve seasoned or marinated beef to score big with hungry guests and tickle the envy of your fellow tailgate chefs. Use plastic, reusable bags to spice up your meat the night before the game or even on the way to the stadium.
- Heat and eat beef products make it easy to tackle and serve a savory beef dish, like a rich pot roast or beef tips in gravy. Mouthwatering, no fuss meals can be ready in minutes by boiling cooking bags in a turkey fryer filled with water.
- Fill an insulated container with boiling water, let stand for a few minutes then empty and put in hot food. Keep container closed so food stays at 140 degrees or above for several hours.
- Put cold, perishable foods, like raw beef patties, in an insulated cooler packed with ice or frozen containers. Wrap raw meat securely so juices don't drip and cross-contaminate other foods.
- Make sure your tailgating gear includes an instant read meat thermometer and disposable cloths, wet wipes or paper towels to clean hands, surfaces and utensils.

Beef and Heirloom Tomato Salad With Balsamic Syrup

(Heirloom tomatoes, prized for their unique shapes and colors, are grown from seeds that have been passed down from generation to generation.)

1 cup balsamic vinegar	Cooking spray
½ teaspoon salt	4 cups arugula, torn into pieces
¼ teaspoon pepper	6 small heirloom tomatoes
1½ tablespoons olive oil	(2 each red, green and yellow) sliced
1½ teaspoons chopped fresh thyme	½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons minced garlic	¼ teaspoon pepper
2 beef shoulder center steaks (Ranch Steaks), cut ¾ inch thick (about 8 ounces each)	¼ cup Parmesan cheese shavings

To prepare Balsamic Syrup, bring vinegar to a boil in medium saucepan; reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes or until reduced to about 1/3 cup (consistency will be syrupy). Remove from heat; cool. Season with salt and pepper. Whisk in oil.

Meanwhile press thyme and garlic evenly onto beef steaks. Spray large nonstick skillet with cooking spray; heat over medium heat until hot. Place steaks in skillet; cook 9 to 12 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness, turning twice. Carve steaks into thin slices. Arrange arugula and tomatoes on serving platter; drizzle with Balsamic Syrup. Top with steak slices; sprinkle with salt, pepper, and cheese shavings.
